Vice-President of Statistics and Informatics Bolsters ARG's Leadership and Experience

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. and LONDON, March 5, 2019 -- Atlantic Research Group (ARG), a global full-service contract research organization (CRO), has announced the hire of Michael Wisniewski, PhD, as Vice-President of Biostatistics and Informatics. The addition significantly strengthens ARG's leadership and experience in analytics, statistics and programming.

ARG, founded in 2004, is a leader in rare disease, immunology and oncology clinical trials management. Dr. Wisniewski, with 35 years of experience building and managing teams of biostatisticians and programmers within the research industry, has previously held positions at GlaxoSmithKline, PPD, Chiltern and Covance.

As a result of the hire, ARG will have an executive in place to help scale its Statistics and Informatics offerings to coincide with the anticipated growth of the organization as a whole.

"Mike's guidance will help ensure our success managing novel and exciting products as we continue to expand globally. We feel fortunate to have him on board," said Lyle Camblos, ARG's President and cofounder, adding that Dr. Wisniewski has worked closely with Sponsors and directly with the FDA in order to maximize the success potential of clinical trials.

Dr. Wisniewski chose to join ARG because of its commitment to partnerships with its clients, stating: "We want to deliver strategy and quality in the clinical development process through relationships with the Sponsor. We are building a world-class Biometrics and Data Analytics organization that will leverage statistical knowledge and technology to provide quality expertise and services to our clients."
